Journal Article with DOI (direct object identifier) and continuous pagination:

With continuous pagination, only the first issue of the volume has a page 1. If there is a letter as part of the pagination, leave the letter in the citation. Adler, Epel, Castellazzo, and Ickovics (2000) and Lam, Hiscock, and Wake (2003) have continuous pagination. Lam et al. (2003) has a letter as part of the pagination. If the journal repaginates each issue, leave the issue number(s) in the citation. See Pressman; issue 3-4 is part of the citation. These three citations with the DOI indicate that the researcher viewed the journal article electronically.

Internet resources or sites

It is common to have missing elements for complete citation, as websites often are missing authors or dates. Also, use your judgment with use of the most stable URL, even if it means linking to home page rather than directly to content.

General format:

Author, A. (date). Title of document [Format description]. Retrieved from http://URL....

Example:

Institute of Medicine (2010). The future of nursing: Leading change, advancing health [report brief].
